MWC 2024 Top Picks

AI's Expanding Role

Expect to see AI woven into almost every aspect of devices and services. From smartphones with AI-powered cameras that optimize shots beyond anything a human could manage, to smartwatches with deep health monitoring and predictive wellness advice.

The Metaverse Evolves

While not a single, unified entity yet, look for big advancements in the components of the metaverse. More powerful and comfortable AR/VR headsets, wearables that sense and interpret real-world physical inputs, and software platforms aimed at creating hyper-realistic shared virtual environments are likely contenders.

Foldables and Beyond

Foldable phones will continue to gain ground but prepare to be wowed by new flexible concepts: laptops with screens that fold in multiple ways, rollable tablets, and maybe even completely reconfigurable devices.

Sustainability Spotlight

As global awareness of e-waste and resource limitations grows, expect more devices made with recycled materials, designed for repairability, and boasting impressive power-efficiency features.

Lenovo ThinkVision Crystal Display

This prototype laptop offers a unique experience with a semi-transparent screen and AI overlay, letting you work and see the world around you. Imagine taking notes during a meeting while still maintaining eye contact.

Samsung Galaxy Ring

A sleek health, fitness, and communication tracker taking the form of a ring. Syncs seamlessly with your Galaxy phone and utilizes advanced sensors, possibly even offering blood-sugar level monitoring.

Motorola Defy-X

A rollable smartphone expanding into a small tablet form factor - and known for its near-indestructibility. Motorola revisits its iconic rugged phone line with innovative tech.

MWC Event Date

The Mobile World Congress (MWC) 2024 is scheduled to take place from February 26 to February 29, 2024, at the Fira Gran Via in Barcelona, Spain
