Over the past decade, there's been a very important transition - digitalization, where paper documents are transformed into digital format. Most of those documents are used in offices and most of the business-related critical data is stored in those files. This is why business owners must ensure that their data is well protected.

The most common file type for keeping secured data is a PDF file format. It ensures that all the content of the document remains the same and if needed, it can be password protected so only the person that has to see the file can access it. Hence, it is perfectly normal for this kind of file to replace the hard copies.

The thing that makes PDF great is also the thing that can slow down the businesses. When you reuse one document type for many uses, you usually need to change the date, name of the person, or use a different address. But you can't make changes to a document, no matter how small they are. This can be really annoying when dealing with a large volume of PDFs.

Luckily, the PDF to Word Converter app was developed by Cometdocs, to overcome those problems. It enables you to convert any PDF to Word document on your mobile phone. With this app you can easily convert PDF to a more suitable document, that can be edited on the go. No need to sit in the office where you are tied to a desktop computer.

OCR technology Included

The app is equipped with high-quality OCR technology that allows text recognition from scanned files. Most of the documents in the office are actually scanned PDFs, that you send via email. This makes even the scanned PDFs convertible. And if you play smart with some cam scanning apps and this app you can create, edit and send your documents, just by using your phone. Being able to convert scanned PDFs as well, is a huge plus.

Convert Files From Cloud Storage
