In brief

Exiting from a group by its own admin will not completely delete the group. Its like simply exiting from other group.

Exiting from a group by its own admin will not completely delete the group. Its like simply exiting from other group. In this case rather than deleting the group the system will automatically assigns a new admin for the group from the existing members. In order to completely remove a group, the admin has to remove each and every members first from the group. After that admin can exit the group. After that the group will be no longer available to anyone.
